Mid-December

Approval of a $393,333 federal loan and a $165,000 grant was given to the University by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Washington, last week. This allotment, with others, brings the total sum up to $765,000. The original sum sought was $1,200,000.

Buildings to be erected from the loans are a central heating plant, an engineering building, a student union building, and an addition to the law building.

The new heating plant, which will serve the entire campus, will be erected at the northwest corner of the storage warehouse, located on South Limestone street. Maury J. Crutcher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said that the heating plant will replace the old one, located back of the Administration building which was erected in 1882, and that several individual plants located in the various buildings will be abandoned. A saving of between $12,000 and $15,000 a year in coal is expected to result from the centralization of the heating system.

A student union building, long the aim of the University students, will include the University book store, cafeteria, ballroom, lounging rooms, recreation rooms and possibly a swimming pool. The exact location of this building has not been determined.

The new engineering building, the first step toward a centralized Engineering college, will be located opposite the present Wendt forge shop, nearly in the center of the campus.

Work on the proposed projects will start within a month and should be completed in a year.

UK Beech-Nut Agent
Wants More Contacts

Elvis J. Stahr, representative for the Beech-Nut Packing Company on the University campus, would like to get in touch with all students in boarding houses which have more than four students as he wants to distribute Beech-Nut products to these boarding houses gratis during the year.

At the present time Mr. Stahr is distributing Beech-Nut peppermint chewing gum to various residence houses of students on the campus.

The Beech-Nut company has representatives in 35 American colleges and universities this year to distribute their products. This company tried this new experiment of distributing their products in 12 schools last year and found this plan very successful.

Complexion of Campus Will Change With New Buildings

"With the addition of the new buildings made possible by this grant, the whole complexion of the campus will be changed," Maury Crutcher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said last week, commenting on the approval of an additional PWA loan of $398,333 to the University. This sum plus the amount previously granted by the Federal authorities for the erection of a new heating plant, will bring the total available for construction on the campus to approximately $765,000, a little more than half the $1,200,000 which was requested, for improvements.

Actual plans for the use of this money have not been made, pending the return of Dean Graham, of the College of Engineering, who has been in Washington working on the projects, but Mr. Crutcher said that it appeared that a student union building, a new law building, and a new engineering building, together with the central heating plant, bids for which have already been advertised, will be opened December 15.

Mr. Crutcher then went on to outline just what the addition of these buildings will mean to the campus. The Union building will take the Commons, the Book store,

GAME WILL DECIDE
SUCCESS OF SEASON

Bands of Both Schools Will Indulge in Battle Royal of Music

One of the most thrilling battles ever staged on any gridiron is expected Thursday when the University of Kentucky Wildcats and the University of Tennessee Volunteers clash in their annual Turkey Day game on Stoll field.

The two teams will go into battle with everything to win and nothing to lose. Each club has won and lost four games this season and the outcome of the Thanksgiving game will determine which team will end the season above the .500 mark. The Cats have won from Maryland, Xavier, Georgia Tech, and Florida, and have lost to Ohio State, Auburn, Alabama, and Tulane. The Vols have defeated Southwestern, Centre, Auburn, and Mississippi, and have lost to North Carolina, Alabama, Duke and Vanderbilt.

Besides the thought of winning the game, the respective clubs will also have before them the idea of "keeping or taking the beer keg." The "battle of the keg" started in 1925 and Kentucky had the honor of keeping the keg, with the 23 to 20 score by which they defeated the Tennesseans that year, emblazoned on it, until the following Thanksgiving Day, when it was taken to Knoxville. The Vols won that game by 6 to 0, and Kentucky never has been able to defeat Tennessee since.

The Kentucky-Tennessee feud was started in 1899 and Thursday's battle will be the thirtieth fight between them. Tennessee won the first game by 12 to 0, and has had the upper hand since, winning 15 games to eight for Kentucky. The others resulted in ties. Kentucky's most thrilling victory was scored the last time the Cats handed the Vols a loss. Len Tracy, sports writer for the Louisville Herald-Tribune, forward passed the Cats to a 23 to 20 triumph.

Although they have failed to defeat the Volunteers since 1925, some of the Wildcats' greatest achievements in football have been staged since that year. In 1928, 1929, and 1931 the Cat-Vol tussle ended in a tie. Each year the Tennessee outfit was headed for a championship year and a possible invitation to the Rose Bowl, but Coach Neyland let his charges think too much about roses and bowls and not enough about wildcats.

The Tennessee outfit was defeated by Vanderbilt last week for the first time in nine years and they are expected to come back with a rebound on Turkey Day. The Volunteer's slate shows that after each defeat suffered this fall they have come back in the following game to whip their foes.

Kentucky's players also can be counted on to come back for a win after their heart-breaking loss last week to Tulane. Their workouts this week indicate they are determined to follow the Vanderbilt example of defeating the Vols.

The two teams are expected to go into the melee Thursday in the best condition they have been in since their opening battles. One

GREETINGS

Thursday is the national day of Thanksgiving. The President of the United States issues a proclamation; every governor does the same, and sometimes mayors use the opportunity for calling on the people to be thankful. I am, however, putting it from the opposite point of view, and trying to say why we should be thankful.

First, it should be remembered that we have had no floods, forest fires, epidemics or devastations in our commonwealth.

Second, we are gradually recovering from the long depression and things are much better in Kentucky than they have been in the last several years.

Third, the student body has been well and fairly happy, and the University staff has done its part with purpose and determination. The University has been able through the financial support given it by the State to continue instruction and to hold up the standard. It might also be said that the University is thankful for the opportunity that it has as a state university to serve people. So taken altogether, there are many things to be thankful for, and when the University meets its enemy and friend in the annual football game we may have still another thing for which to be thankful.

(Signed)

FRANK McVEY,
President of the University

Ag Students Hear Mrs. Pauline
Park Wilson Discuss Problems

Mrs. Pauline Park Wilson, of the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, Mich. was guest speaker Saturday morning at an assembly of the College of Agriculture in Memorial hall. Mrs. Wilson's subject was "Opportunities for Home Economics Graduates."

Referring to a book entitled "After College, What?" Mrs. Wilson said that most students were considering what jobs they would fill, what success would be attained, whether they would marry, and what contribution they would make to the community. The home-economics courses have a definite tie-up with life, and form a good basis for understanding of problems with which young people are confronted, explained Mrs. Wilson.

Dean Thomas P. Cooper presided and presented the speaker. Miss Mildred Lewis, of the Music department of the University, led group singing.

Venerable Charred Cask To
Be Object of Affections

Feeling the need of keener competition in college sports, shortly before the Kentucky-Tennessee football game on Thanksgiving day in 1925, a group of the University students known as the "Raspberry Patch" decided that this competition could be stimulated if there were something material and traditional for which to play, rather than just the honor of winning the game.

The beer keg was selected. But this was in the days of Prohibition, and the Anti-Saloon league, characterized by the proteges of Carrie Nation, insisted that the use of a beer keg meant that the University favored the return of light wine and beer.

The "Raspberry Patch" because of the scarcity of beer kegs in the Bluegrass, sent to Cincinnati for a vinegar barrel and to satisfy the totalitarians it was at first known as the "water keg," but the following year it became the "beer keg."

At the first Thanksgiving Day ceremony, the University band, led by two Kentucky students marched from the right goal post to the center of the field where the keg was placed. The Tennessee band, in similar formation marched from the other post. When the two groups met in the center of the

U. K. ORCHESTRA
BIG SUCCESS AT
SUNDAY VESPER

Near Capacity Audience Is

Initial Concert

FIVE NUMBERS ARE PLAYED AT SERVICE

Old Familiar Songs Included
In Program of Orchestra

By DAVE SALYERS

Playing to another near-capacity vespere audience, the University Philharmonic orchestra, under the capable direction of Professor Carl Lampert, presented the fourth program of the Sunday afternoon vespere musical series Sunday in Memorial hall.

The orchestra, which this year is the most complete in its history, turned in another very creditable performance and reassured the tremendous popularity that it has enjoyed in the past few years. The very best of talent combined with the best possible style and cooperation was evident in every number presented.

The program consisted of five numbers: "Finlandia," by Sibelius; the first movement from the "Unfinished Symphony," by Schubert; "The Dark Madonna," by Donaldson; "La Media Noche" from "Hispania Suite," by Stossel; and "Waltz from the ballet 'Dornroschen,'" by Tchaikovsky. Outstanding numbers were the "Dark Madonna," a futuristic number which brought every instrument into play, the popular movement from the "Unfinished Symphony," and the familiar waltz from "Dornroschen." As an encore, the orchestra repeated the number from the "Hispania Suite."

One of the best features of the program was the fact that each number was familiar and was short. The program left many wishing that more numbers would be played, a feeling that is a fitting tribute to any presentation.

The next vesper program will feature the Old Harp Singers, an octette of mixed voices singing a program of early American folk music.

STUDENT OPINION

Dear Editor:

There have been several articles in the editorial columns of The Kernel concerning freshmen caps, traditions, and school spirit. A school that is rich in traditions is one to be proud of, but there are certain traditions that become antiquated in any school. It is no longer necessary to insult a freshman's intellect to prevent him from becoming a ruler of the campus. It seems to be an indication of fear on the part of the upperclassmen that they should attempt to heap petty restrictions and rulings upon the heads of the freshmen. The great majority of freshmen depend upon the upperclassmen for leadership and guidance, and respect them as superior students. When the upperclassmen flaunt their authority in the faces of the freshmen class, then they, the upperclassmen, have succeeded in destroying any tendency toward school spirit that the freshmen might have.

As a whole, the freshmen class is proud to be included in the student body of the University of Kentucky. They are willing to keep everything alive on the campus, but they cannot succeed because of the actions that the upperclassmen take against them. School spirit cannot be forced upon a group of students. It must be offered them by the upper portion of the student body with all sincerity and respect. The lack of school spirit is not the fault of the freshmen; the fault lies entirely with the upperclassmen. The freshmen is not an animal; he has a few sensibilities; he can sense the lack of respect for the University on the part of the upperclassmen. Only a short time is required for freshmen to become bitter and prejudiced when this limitation is placed upon him. He soon learns that sophistication is the order of the day, and that he will become an object of ridicule if he shows any trace of emotion. It is impossible to attend any student gathering and enter into any organized cheering when there are a number of students around who persist in maintaining a dignified silence except for scathing comments.

After this discouraging introduction to the present day students' idea of school spirit how can the freshmen be expected to have any degree of enthusiasm for the University? Then, when the upperclassmen attempt to force the freshmen, by the authority of the Student Council, to become imbued with school spirit, they are confessing their own disregard of traditions as they should be observed on any campus.

This article would have no more fitting conclusion than the following paragraph taken from President McVey's commencement address of June 6, 1932:

"A university is a place; it is a spirit... It is the center where ambitious youth gathers to learn; it protects the traditions, honors the new and tests its value; it believes in truth, protests against error and leads men by reasoning rather than by force."

SHOP SIGHTS

By BETTY EARLE

It really looks as if the holidays were creeping up on us now—what with all the Santas, red and green streamers, and what not. But Wolf-Wile's is all ready for them, with their Holiday House of Christmas cards and wrappings established in the middle of the first floor. It seems early for this, but you know a month isn't a very long time, especially if you're planning personal printed or engraved cards, so take a look at the Holiday House. Don't forget that the wrappings are half the fun of Christmas, particularly if you save the ribbons! The trickiest bit I saw had a white background with black deer sprinting through silver pines.

Graves-Cox says this is Arrow Week, gentlemen, so this is a fine opportunity to write home for that extra bit. Great occasions must be celebrated! Tell the home folks about those swanky new rough weave shirts, styled by Arrow, with wide button down collars—Kent flair. However, don't be too enthusiastic or dad will probably spend your allowance on some for himself. Then there are wool ties to match—pair up a solid color with the dominant one in the plaid shirt you're buying. And bright plaid mufflers, wool gloves (each finger guaranteed to be a different color!) and, if you really want to be seen, try the new striped socks—but please, not all at once!

Hats are coming to the front! Flowers, veils, flat furs—in fact, nearly everything but the kitchen sink—and right in the front! Sometimes they have a little trouble getting it all in the front, so excess is put on top. Shipp's has a new type they call Lucky Strike—a turned up bill effect of galyak or astrakhan held in place at the back by a grosgrain ribbon bow—in black felt, and over your right eye a perky red pom-pom holding down a neat stiff circular veil about four inches in diameter. This is a new idea for veils—quite welcome, too, after having hat brims and veils that make you see eye specialists after each wearing.

"Camels never get on your Nerves"

STEADY SMOKERS SAY

WILLIE HOPPE, champion of champions, and most famous personality of the billiard world! Mr. Hoppe has learned that a mild cigarette affords more pleasure... and that mildness is essential to one who prizes healthy nerves. He says: "Championship billiards call for healthy nerves. It was a happy day for me when I turned to Camels. I found I could smoke all I wish and never have 'edgy' nerves. I have smoked Camels for a long time, and I want to compliment Camels on their mildness. It must take more expensive tobaccos to give that special Camel flavor I like so much—always cool and good." You, too, will find a new delight once you turn to Camels. They never get on your nerves... never tire your taste.

Alumni News

By C. T. Hertzsch

Mrs. Adam L. Estelle (Catherine G. Carmody, A. B. '07) drove down from Chicago with a party of five and her son Jack for the Homecoming Game and had the pleasure of meeting a number of classmates and old friends.

George T. Bogard, B. M. E. '08, was fatally injured in an automobile collision on U. S. Highway No. 31, near Elizabethtown, Ky., the night of Nov. 14, enroute to his home in Lexington, following a tour of Kentucky Utilities offices in western Kentucky. Mr. Bogard was vice-president of the Kentucky Utilities Co., in charge of maintenance and operations. He had been connected with the company since its organization in 1913 and was engineer in charge of construction of Dix River Dam. Mr. Bogard and family moved to Lexington from Louisville two years ago when the offices of the company were transferred to Lexington.

Paul Frances, B. M. E. '11, president of the Frances Land Co., Fayette, Tenn.; Frank T. Miles, B. M. E. '11, president of the Milo Co., Ft. Thomas; and Albert B. Phister, manufacturer of fire extinguishers, Ft. Thomas, Ky. (all B. M. E.'s '11) were back for the U. K. and Florida game and were as happy to be here as their old friends were to see them again. Phister's impersonation of Prof. Walter K. in the Strollers' production of The College Widow and his hectic cough which never failed to scatter students of the prep. dept. were masterpieces and will be long remembered by his flow students.

James F. Corn, A. B. '16, is practicing law at Cleveland, Tenn.

Iley B. Browning, B. S. in Geology '16, came to Lexington to see the U. K. and Florida game and meet old friends. Iley is a geologist with offices at Ashland, Ky. He became interested in oil and gas and petroleum products immediately after graduation and has attained success in those fields.

William S. Moore, B. M. E. '17, and wife of Pittsburgh, Pa., stopped over on their way to Louisville (Mr. Moore's Kentucky home) for a short visit with his classmates, Maury and Mrs. Crutcher (Vie Tolen Cramer). Mr. Moore is with the United Cork Companies, Bessemer Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Moore visited the Alumni Office with Maury and were pleased to hear about his old University friends and see the campus improvements.

Mr. Garland H. B. Davis, A. B. in Chemistry '21, has been promoted from Assistant Director of Research to Director at the "Esso" Laboratories of the Standard Oil Development Company, Elizabeth, N. J. Home: 19 Pingry Place, Apt. A. 2.

Mervin K. (Blondie) Eblen, L.L.B. '21, is practicing law at Hazard, Ky. "Blondie" was the first president of the Student Council and has always been interested in campus activities. He was a welcome visitor at the Alumni Office recently.

Lloyd B. Averett, A. B. Com. '23, M. A. in Insurance '25, is on the staff of the Life Insurance Sales

Bureau at Hartford, Conn. Lloyd had his induction in life insurance business in connection with the local branch of the Mutual Benefit Ins. Co. of N. J. Later, he was appointed instructor in insurance at the University and was instrumental in the establishment of group insurance for the University staff. Mrs. Averett (Margaret Van Meter, A. B. '25) will join him soon. His address is the Garde Hotel, Hartford, Conn.

Jack W. Green, Eng. '24, has a pair of keen eyes—Saturday at the Ohio State-Northwestern game he spotted Bob Zupke, coach of the Illinois team, scouting the contest. Jack is now sporting Bob's autograph which was written right under Coach Schmidt's picture on the program. Zupke, by the way, told Jack that Ohio looked "too good" to him. The grizzled old veteran smiled all over when Jack congratulated him on his recent victory on the west coast. Jack, manager of the Mansfield branch office of the Standard Sanitary Company, was president of Suky while on the campus and was active in campus affairs.

Clyde W. Gray, B. S. M. E. '25, who is now with the Superheater Company, East Chicago, Ill., has a brother, Francis, in the sophomore class of the College of Commerce. Clyde was president of his class and a member of the student council. In a letter to C. R. Melcher of November 15, he says: "Although I have not been closely associated with the University during recent years, I still look back with fond remembrance upon my pleasant associations during my tenure as president of the class of 1925 and while a member of the Student Council."

Ruth T. Melcher, M. A. in Psych. '27, is at the University of Vienna, Austria, attending the lectures and working in the psychological laboratories of Drs. Carl and Charlotte Buehler. After receiving her Master's degree from the University of Kentucky, she was research fellow at the Training School, Vineland, N. J., 1928; senior fellow, 1928-29; research assistant 1929-31; co-author of "Mental Deficiency Due to Birth Injury" with Drs. A. E. Doll, E. A. Phelps; received PhD Johns Hopkins, 1934, in Psychology, former Dean of Men at the University and now Professor Emeritus.

Mabel Graham, A. B. '28, was awarded first prize of $1000 in a contest for the best amateur photographs held by 64 newspapers throughout the U. S. Miss Graham is a teacher in the Lebanon, Ky. High School. Her "Portrait of Margaret," a picture of a laughing little girl in a party dress, clutching a balloon, was entered in the national contest by the Louisville Courier-Journal, and a copy of it appeared in the pictorial news section of the Courier-Journal, Nov. 17, and also in the Time magazine, Nov. 18. Time says: "The judges were: Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President; Mrs. Emily ('Etiquette') Post; Hiram Percy Maxim; Lowell Thomas; Editor Kenneth Wilson Williams of the Eastman amateur publications. Mmes. Roosevelt and Post were unable to attend the final judging, but the other three took their work seriously. For two solid hours newshawks waited outside glass doors while inventor Maxim gesticulated with his glasses. Lecturer Thomas propped print after print on an easel, Editor Williams squinted, argued, paced the floor. Finally the judges emerged, smiling amiably and announced their decision."

Miss Graham's University friends congratulate her upon her success.

Miss Charley Smith, B. S. '28, whose engagement to Mr. Donald B. Sutherland of Detroit, Michigan, was announced last week, was graduated from the University of Kentucky in the class of 1928. She was an English major in the College of Arts and Sciences and was one of the most outstanding girls in the University. She was president of her social sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta, president of the Woman's Self-Government Association, sponsor of the band during her junior and senior years, and was May Queen in 1928.

Mr. Sutherland is a brother of Prof. D. B. Sutherland of the Department of English. He attended the University, class of '29, and was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He is now associated with the J. M. and L. A. Osborn Co., manufacturers and distributors of sheet metal, of Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo.

Miss Virginia Nevins A. B. '32, has been named as supervisor of District 3, which includes Northern and Central Kentucky, for Writers Projects, an organization which will function as a part of the federal government's plan to produce an official American guide for all sections of the country.

Writers and research workers are being employed in each locality and the efforts of each will be assembled in the various district offices and eventually forwarded to the Louisville office of the WPA, where all material will be edited carefully before being forwarded to Washington for compilation into six volumes of 600 pages each representing the entire United States.

Harrison Elliott, A. and S. '34,

Martin, Ky., who wrote the first American folk opera, "Call of the Cumberlands," will be in Lexington for the Thanksgiving game. He will broadcast over WLAP from the University studios a number of original folk songs.

STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

ELECTIONS VOID!

Now that the smoke has cleared away and we can get a clear picture of what really happened last Thursday in the class elections which were declared void by the Student Council, it is generally agreed that the action of the governing body, although drastic, is most commendable.

In the past it has been the case that the members of the Student Council themselves were accomplices of the "crooked politicians," and not only allowed evident irregularities in the elections, but even aided in their accomplishment. Consequently the condition has grown worse every year, until it finally reached its crisis last Thursday.

It was evident that something had to be done when it was disclosed that "ringers" had been voting under the guise of prominent persons on the campus in spite of the efforts of the members of the council and the challengers, which both factions had stationed in the polls. In view of this fact and others which gave good proof that the ballot boxes had been "stuffed" the Student Council declared the election null and void, thereby subjecting itself to much criticism and unfavorable comment.

It is the desire of the members of the council to formulate a plan which would eliminate all of the expense, work, and unpleasantness which are involved in the carrying out of an election. It is expected that some method of selection of the class officers will be adopted, which will furnish men for these posts who are capable and worthy of such an honor, rather than some obscure person who has the support of a few clever "politicians."

The Student Council has asserted itself and has shown that it is truly a governing body rather than a mere figurehead, as has often been stated.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

Thanksgiving at the University means two big things to the students—turkey and the annual Tennessee game. Of these two the latter is certainly the more important. This time-honored classic of the football world has been handed down to us by our honorable predecessors to uphold and protect in the glory and prestige which it enjoys as the most outstanding game of the Kentucky football season.

Likewise has another tradition concerning Thanksgiving at the University been handed down—namely that of a celebration following the victory. In order to fittingly celebrate a triumph over our rivals from the Southern state it has been customary to observe a holiday on the campus Friday and Saturday following Thanksgiving. In this way have the student body been able to observe properly the glory which comes from a victory over Tennessee.

However, it has been several years since such a celebration has been held, the reason being that it has been several years since Kentucky has beat Tennessee. The custom has died, not from misuse, but from lack of opportunity for use.

But this is another year and our chances of defeating the Orange and White are much better than they have been for a number of years, not because Tennessee doesn't have a good team, but because we have a better one.

From the foregoing The Kernel feels justified in advocating a holiday on Friday and Saturday if we win Thanksgiving. Of course we realize that in proposing such a general strike we are "bucking" certain definite rules and regulations of the University concerning attendance, namely, the penalty which is provided for not attending classes on the day following a holiday. However, we believe that our honored officials and the powers-that-be will themselves be so elated over the defeat of our ancient rival that they will unhesitatingly disregard any such offenses on Friday and Saturday.

Let's beat Tennessee and celebrate Friday and Saturday!

THANKS

In line with its policy of criticizing with the hope of bettering the situation where criticism is due, and bestowing praise when such betterment takes place, The Kernel wishes to compliment the various tobacco companies which have installed smoke-reducing equipment in order to eliminate the nuisance formerly arising from their plants during the redrying season. The three largest companies, American, Reynolds and Liggett, have all installed stokers this season in an effort to cooperate with University officials in the elimination of the heavy smoke which used to becloud the campus during the operating period.

These stokers were installed at a cost of approximately $25,000 and much praise is due the officials of the various companies who have shown their willingness to cooperate in making the atmosphere of the campus more desirable by riding it of this heavy, obnoxious smoke. Such accommodation is indeed indicative of that Bluegrass hospitality and courtesy which the merchants and townspeople of Lexington are continually bestowing upon the students of the University and is deeply appreciated.

And so we say "Thanks" to these companies for permitting us to enjoy the full benefits of clean, fresh air, so beneficial to the health of the growing, normal American youth represented at the University.

YOUTH AND AGE

Frequently, we hear older persons, when discussing members of the younger generation who have come into positions of importance and responsibility, express the opinion that "he or she" is too young for the job.

We have never been willing to agree that those more matured years have been the only fitted for the positions of leadership and responsibility. Why may not younger persons be just as capable, or perhaps more so, in this twentieth century, as the renowned men of bygone days?

Thomas Jefferson, despite the fact that he did not become President until he was 57 years old, never did anything to compare in brilliance to the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, achieved at the age of 33. Alexander conquered Persia before he was 25. Hannibal crossed the Alps before reaching the age of 29. Napoleon, whether we choose his victory at Lodi or his triumph before Austerlitz as his greatest achievement, was about 30 years old. Gallileo was only 17 when he discovered the law of the pendulum. Perkins was 18 when he synthesized mauve, the first synthetic dye. At the age of 24, Newton worked the calculus of the Principia that was published 20 years later.

Hertz was 23 when he discovered wireless waves. Already an assistant to the famous Sir Humphrey Davy, Faraday was well known as a science lecturer at the Royal Institute of London at the age of 23. Schubert was only 11 years old when he began composing; Mendelssohn wrote his "Overture to A Midsummer Night's Dream" at 17. Among the painters were artists like Michel Angelo, who, when 33, was appointed by the Pope to decorate the Sistine Chapel.

"Thanatopsis," that masterpiece of poetry known to every school child, was written by a lad named Bryant, who was but 17 years old. At the age of 20 he wrote his equally famous, "To A Water Fowl."

Surely, the young are capable. While experience may be the "best teacher," the imagination, the energy, the ambition, and the questing, iconoclastic spirit of youth are most certainly positive assets toward accomplishment, and are much to be desired.

If you buy a corsage for you date to the Turkey Day game, be sure to purchase it through a Mortar Board member and help a student project.

Three universities in Chicago are sponsoring a university for the air to be broadcast over five local stations. An extensive four-year course is being planned for this novel university.

The other evening we heard a woman ask what in the world would become of the younger generation. That's an easy one. They'll fall in love, get married, have children and trouble and all that sort of thing, and as they get older they will worry about what's to become of the young-

Hoi Polloi

By BOB HESS

Well, with the football season drawing to a close, the students are gaining momentum for the celebration of the event of the Tennessee Vols on Turkey Day. There certainly will be a disappointed student body in Kentucky if we don't win that game. So, Big Blue, get out there Thursday and push that mass of avoidpulis (word borrowed, with interest, from Joe Quinn) from Knoxville all over Stoll Field. Givemell, Kentucky!

We notice that Walter Winchell approves of the use of the personal pronoun or the use of "I" for journalism. So, "I" will take "Walt's" hint and instead of writing that your correspondent thinks so, it will be that I think so....Okeh! Okeh.

The Roses

The roses were thrown to a charming little Tridelt last Tuesday, but due to the fact that this column was crowded for space (the advertisers were crawling all over one another for room in that issue) the roses were omitted. So, we have procured a beautiful new bouquet of the sweet flowers for the most pulchritudinous mass of molecules to be grouped together in the form of a coed, Miss Frances Woods, at the University of Kentucky. Hall! Hall! The most beautiful gal on the campus of the school which is located in the state which is noted for its beautiful women. Nice goin', Fran. Some stuff, hey kid? The judges' choice suits me, but I guess that they had a pretty hard time deciding between such femmes as Lois King, Walt Girdler's dream gal, Lucy Maddox, the Southern lass who has never seen snow, Lib Jones, the Bradley Hall sweetheart, and Bettie Bosworth, the Interfraternity Council's choice. Wheel! I'd hate to judge a contest like that. Congratulations and felicitations, gals. Nice goin' to every one of you. And the same goes for Bo McMillan and Cuba Hardin, who tied for the honor of "Most Popular Man."

The Dirtiest Election in History
Just a word to let the UK cynics know that the action which the Student Council took in voiding what has been termed the "dirtiest election on the UK campus" is on the up and up. It may interest you grippers to know that the election was about a draw, as far as is known, and that when the vote on the motion to void the election was called there was not one dissenting vote. So, maybe that will convince you that politics do not enter into the decisions made by the unprejudiced Student Council.

Stahr of Midnight
Elvis "Activity-Man" Stahr, otherwise known as "Huey Beechnut," must be losing his power. Recently Stahr had a date with the little lass from the Mormon state, Virginia Alsop, at 9 P. M. and she staved out with his "brother in the bond." Toar Cradv till ten, leaving little Elvis "holding the bag." Brother or no brother, was he mad at Toar. And to top it off, he tried to get a date with her on a school night, and she said that she couldn't get out on week nights. Ummmm. But it is known that she sits home with Frank Coffey on school nights. Incidentally, Stahr called her four times in one night when Coffey was sitting by her big open fire place listening to the conversation. Umm

FLASH: Logan "Home Wrecker and Heart Breaker" Brown reports that in economics class, Evelyn Carroll, the Georgetown pumpkin, simply loves to hold hands.

Won't some one please give us some campus snap shots. The annual is going to have snap shots on about twelve pages, and what I mean, Baker and I are having one-lafatyme getting enough pictures for these pages. I've been snapoin' 'em right and left on the campus this last week, but I'm afraid that will never do. So please submit your snapshots to Bazil Baker or to me. Thanx.

Fall Marriage
Lois Lilly has tumbled into the sea of matrimony. Yep, last Thursday morning she and her spouse, Guy Ruffner, the EMCEE at Joyland, hied off to Versailles and said "I do." Now ain't that sweet. Guess she won't be back in school. Best of luck to you two.

More Romance

It was one cold stormy Saturday night. The wind was whistling through the trees. In fact it was last Saturday, which was the night that Joe Craft hooked his SAE pin on the ducky new fall dress of Julie Muir Brown. At the rate the students are going this fall, I won't have much reporting to do next spring. Hope you two are both happy, and I'm still looking for my cigar.

Wicky Wacky Woo

Last week, Lucy Maddox was coming out of the library just as Wicky Broffitt was entering. She took one look at Wicky and fainted dead away. Wicky saw to it that she came around, and after "Bill" had regained her senses, Wicky tried to date her up. Nothing doing this week, so he managed to get two dates with her next week. This might make a good skeleton for a short novel, huh?

Last week the quill was unable to drip, but it seems to be doing a little better this week....The boys are all getting their formal wear out of the moth balls for the Interfraternity Council formal Dec. 7.... This hog wrestle will undoubtedly be one of the biggest social functions of the year. Grab your dates early, fellah....Understand that Tommy Tucker's band is going to furnish the rhythm for the dance. And the songstress, Emily Lane, a sweet little bit of appeal....

Ann Stevenson says that she is going to be bride's maid when Kay Kennedy takes Bill Smith for the better or worse....Understand that Emmie Haggis is going to have Johnny Burkhardt's band for a party during Christmas vacation....Jack Overall tried to sell a date with Betty Bruce Nunn for two-bits. So that's what you think of her, Jack.

Did you know that there are five members of the frosh football squad married? And three members of the varsity married, and about three more secretly married?...Wonder why the telephone company doesn't invent a device that would automatically say "line is busy" when 6804 and 6805 is asked for....Buck Jones is second to none of the wrestlers out at Woodland....Intramural wrestling and boxing starts soon. SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN
Kernel Sports Editor

Kentucky-Tennessee! Thanksgiving Day! These two institutions are almost synonymous, at least to persons connected in any way with the University. For more than 30 years, with only the war years intervening, Kentucky has met Tennessee's Volunteers on the gridiron every Thanksgiving Day.

Because of the geographical location of the two schools and the natural spirit that exists between them, the Turkey Day battle has become traditional, the most important contest on either schedule. A win for one team over the other is the crowning glory to a successful season.

This year, as both teams are more evenly matched than at any time in several years, the Kentucky-Tennessee football festival ranks as the outstanding game on the day's gridiron card. Indications are that the season's largest home crowd will look on as the rival squads vie Thursday afternoon on Stoll field.

For ten members of Kentucky's squad, this will be the last appearance in Wildcat football togs. The seniors, for whom this game will be a finale are Captain Jimmy Long, Charley "Hammerhead" McClurg, Bill Jobe, Arperd Olah, and Sam Potter, all veteran linemen, and Langdon Hay, Norris "Bo" McMullan, Clarence "Able" Ayres, Frank annual feud and were soundly McCool, and Red Simpson, a quintet of backfield performers.

Maybe the fact that this is the last contest for many of the players will inspire the Wildcats to finally avenge the defeats that the Volunteers have been inflicting on Kentucky since these players were freshmen.

In 1932, the 'Cats traveled to Knoxville for the renewal of the whipped by a great Tennessee eleven, 26-0. The following year, the Vols came here after enjoying another highly successful campaign and clinched their season's record with a 27-0 win over Kentucky. Last November, the Blue and White team playing its initial season under the guidance of Coach Chet Wynne, brought to a close a mediocre season by dropping a 19-0 decision to the last of the Major Neyland-coached Tennessee teams.

Now for the first time, the ten players who are to be graduated this year, find themselves with at least an even chance to break through the spell that the Volunteers have apparently cast over them.

Thursday's battle will be the thirteenth of the series. In games won, the Vols hold the edge, having taken thirteen contests while the Wildcats have captured ten. Six of the traditional games have ended in ties. Some of the most bitterly-fought battles of the more recent years have been the tie games in which Kentucky has wrecked Tennessee dreams of a Rose Bowl invitation.

A tie game may be a moral victory in a year when Kentucky seems to be hopelessly outclassed, but this season a victory seems to be the only way in which the Wildcats may bring a mediocre campaign to a fitting finale. As we have noted before, a convincing setback of Tennessee will wipe away the sting of earlier losses and give 'Cat enthusiasts a brighter outlook on next year's schedule.

With the exception of Sam Potter, all of the Kentuckians are ready for the fray. Potter is almost definitely out of competition, which means that the Tulane game was his last for Kentucky. It is just barely possible that Sam may get into action for a brief period on Thursday.

The rest of the team, however, came out of the Tulane tilt in good physical shape and the extra rest that they gained by not playing last Saturday should prove a boon. Head Coach Wynne has had the boys gradually tapering off and will probably hold his last scrimmage session of the season this afternoon. This day's workout has grown to be somewhat of a tradition, in its own right, as the seniors go through their work of setting-up exercises, scrimmage, blocking and tackling the dummy for the last time.

We might mention a matter here which most of you do not need to be told about but will merely serve as a reminder. This is the last time that some of these Kentucky players will be representing the Blue and White—when and if they are removed from the game, be sure to give them a big hand—they deserve it.

Father of UK Grid Captain Is Dead

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Cropper, Ky. Baptist church for Albert Long, of Shelby county, who died Friday night after a heart attack. Mr. Long was the father of Jimmy Long, captain of the University of Kentucky varsity football team. Member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, of which Long is a member, as well as representatives of the football team, attended the services.

RARE PRINT LOANED

The Junior League print show will include a number of extremely interesting and valuable prints from private collections in central Kentucky, when it is held in the University of Kentucky Art Center during the first week in December. Included in the exhibit will be a print by Childe Hassam, prominent American painter and etcher who died this year at East Hampton, Long Island. The print is the property of Professor and Mrs. Alfred Zembrod, who are lending it for the occasion.

Election of Class Officers Reformed

Selection of class officers by an executive council for each of the three lower classes appointed by the Deans of the six colleges on the campus was decided at a meeting of the Student Council yesterday afternoon. Under this plan the freshman, sophomore and junior classes will each have an executive council of six members selected by the Deans of the six colleges. The executive council for each class will meet with a member of the Student Council to select the class officers.

This change was the result of the council's action in declaring last Thursday's election void.

Sport Sketches

By BOBBY EVANS

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help," so said David, the Psalmist, and so says Coach Wynne...and so will might he have said such, for without Able Ayres, Gene Meyers, Sam and Lexie Potter, Bert Johnson, and Wendell Skaggs, well, the "Chatter" would have to look higher than the hills for help...we have already introduced Able Ayers and Bert Johnson, may we now present Mr. Gene Meyers, and Mr. Lexie Potter.

Harlan, Kentucky, presents the 195 pounds of fighting flesh in Gene Meyers, star center of the Blue and White...he is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and 20 years old...a junior in the Education college...member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity, Keys, and Advanced Military...Gene likes to roam over the mountains with his "brown eyes" who is patiently waiting for him in Harlan—to hear him rave about her, you would think she is the only girl...hunting and fishing is a great pleasure...Gene is remembered by the seniors of '35 as that "fighting upstart" who forced their regular center, Ernie James, to sit on the bench, part of the time, last year...when Coach Wynne was asked recently on a radio review whom he considered his best defensive man, he replied, "I consider no one better than Meyers"...quite a compliment Gene, coming from the coach...when in doubt, don't punt...ask the coach; he knows...heads up ball has enabled this player to intercept many passes this year...noticed it?...of course a roving center is in an ideal position to do this; however, Gene has done unusually well—remember in the Xavier game when he intercepted one and ran 60 yards for a touchdown...Kentucky might have had a better center (we doubt it) but it would be safe to say that she has never had one who was a greater fighter than Gene Meyers.

Lexie Potter, Sam's big brother, is a junior in the Education college...stands 5 feet and 11 inches toward the stratosphere...24 years old, weighs 195 pounds, and built like a brick shower house...says he is going to coach football...Lexie has it up on the two preceding men in that he a up-to-the-minute modern Kentucky football player...yes, you guessed it, he is married too...Lexie was playing bang-up ball for the Cats two years ago but was bruised rather badly in one of the games...shucks", he said, "I haven't lost any thing here, I'm going back to my wife and my boots and saddle...what smatter, Lexie, did you find football to be a safer game than the game of marriage?...anyhow, we are glad to see you back...you've been a great help to the 'Cats...Lexie was the boy who ran interference for his little brother Sam in high school when Sam led the nation's scorers...but Lexie didn't make the headlines...so it goes with those who do the less spectacular, steady work, o.d. boy...but Lexie, the good book tells us "The last shall be first and the first shall be last"....

Cats Meet Vols In Turkey Day Game

member of each squad is ailing and both these men are first stringers. Sam Potter, Wildcat guard, who has been in poor condition since the Ohio State game, is still ailing. He injured his right knee in the Tulane game and has been hobbling about but is in no condition for football. He is a doubtful starter. Tennessee is likely to be without the services of their captain and right halfback, Toby Palmer. The Vol ball-toter was injured in the Vandy game and like Potter is a doubtful starter.

Two Kentucky lads are rivals for Palmer's berth on the Tennessee eleven. "Red" Harp, former Pineville star, and Alvin Rice, ex-Ashland luminary, are doing their best to land a starting berth in the Thanksgiving Day melee. If Rice gets the call, something rivaling a civil war will take place. Rice and Bert Johnson, Cat ace ball carrier, were former teammates on the Ashland Tomcat eleven. They will be out to outdo the other and an interesting fight is promised.

Whether or not these two lads get together an interesting struggle is expected to take place. "Red" Harp first came to Kentucky and after a few days pulled stakes and joined the Volunteer camp. The Kentucky team members will be trying to make him regret this change.

This Turkey Day game will be the last time ten Kentucky players will get a chance to defeat the Tennesseans. Each will receive his diploma in June. They are Captain James Long, McMillan, Ayers, Sympton, Hay, McCool, Jobe, McClurg, Olah, and Potter.

The University athletic officials report practically every seat in the stadium has been sold, and a crowd of approximately 18,000 people is expected for the game unless unfavorable weather prevails.

Not only a football battle will be staged but a battle of music will be held between the halves of the game. The Kentucky band, or the "Best Band in Dixie," led by Drum Majors Stockton and Bennesson and Co-ed sponsor Rosemary Clinkscales, will battle the Tennessee band. The bands will stage separate and also massed drills. Something very unique in band formations will be shown the fans by both musical units. The Tennessee rooters will bring along the beer keg and a grand ceremony for its possession will be held at the game.

U. K. LIVESTOCK IN CHICAGO MEET

Many Championships, Prizes Have Been Won by University Sheep, Steers at Exposition

University sheep and steers were shipped Monday morning to Chicago where they will be shown at the International Livestock Exposition next week. The sheep were in charge of Harold Barber, shepherd at the Experiment station, and John Frazer, herdsman.

In the last 12 years, sheep from the Kentucky Experiment station have won a grand championship, two reserve grand championships, 18 championships, 17 reserve championships, and a large number of first, second and third prizes at the exposition.

Several members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and Experiment station are planning to attend the exposition, including Prof. E. S. Good, Dr. W. W. Dimock, W. J. Harris, E. J. Wilford, Dr. H. J. Metzger, Wayland Rhoads, H. G. Sellards and L. J. Horlacher.

SOCIETY HAS MEETING

Dr. Ruth Lindquist, nationally known in the Home Economics field, and a founder of Iota chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Mrs. Pauline Park Wilson, from the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, Mich., and a member of the graduating class of '24 at the University of Kentucky, were guests of the society at a banquet Saturday night, Nov. 25, held at the Green Tree tea room. Dr. Statie Erikson, head of the Home Economics department, presided over the banquet.

There will be no meeting of the Pitkin club Wednesday due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

partment. This structure will possibly be erected in the area between McVey hall and the Mining laboratory. The new central heating plant, which will replace the obsolete plant behind the Administration building, and the many individual plants scattered in buildings over the campus, saving the University about $12,000 to $15,000 annually on fuel, will be placed in the north-west corner of the building housing the Department of Building and Grounds.

As to the possible locations of the other buildings, Mr. Crutcher said nothing definite; however, he did dwell on his desire to see the erection of buildings along the Limestone street front of the University campus, that area now taken up as a parade ground.

As soon as plans can be drawn up and bids taken, work will commence to eat into this sum of three-quarters of a million dollars. In the meantime work will begin on the central heating plant.

STREET NEARS COMPLETION

Work on WPA Project No. 393, the street widening project along Euclid, beginning at Limestone, to extend to Harrison avenue, has been progressing rapidly in the last two weeks of nice weather. Mr. Tuit, foreman on the project, said that he hoped to have it finished in another month, weather permitting. Hard surfacing on that corner of Limestone was finished yesterday, after that street had been under improvement for over a year, and it was thrown open to traffic.
